Really not one of the top contenders in last Saturday's "Little 500" was this freshman entry from West Seifert. I wonder why?

Aquinas Captures "Little 500" In Rousing Last-Minute Finish

By JAMES O. SAUL

Vince Taranto, driving an inconspicuous, little black car, led the Aquinas team to a come-from-behind victory in one of the closest races in the "Little 500's" history, last Saturday.

The soft-spoken Taranto drove for the full two and one-half hours over the mud-splattered course, occasionally speaking words of encouragement to his pushers.

Joe Hemminger, owner of the car, was pleased with the way the car held up under the rugged race conditions.

"It was the same car that we won with last year when we were in Halas. We haven't had a pit stop in two years."

Obviously elated from winning the race, the tired Hemminger's spirits were dampened slightly when sneaky thieves stole his car.

Besides Hemminger, other strong pushers were John Pilarowski, senior prefect Chuck Arndt, and townies David Muth and Terry Campbell. Draftees from Powerhouse—Ed Kleese, Mike Baum and Mike Krapec—turned in strong performances.

Bill O'Connor started out strong, then weakened, then got sick, and then came back to finish the race in one of the day's more courageous efforts. Tony Tortorello relieved for the injured Bill Schilling and ran well.

Second place was a tie between Xavier Hall and Drexel.

The Mongies' "Orange Monster" was heavier than most of the cars, a hindrance to the well-conditioned seminarians. Those dirty Mongies were even penalized one lap.

Drexel had a big car and small wheels but still managed the tie. They had a balanced team of pushers, led by Mike Rainbird, and were even in the lead several times.

Halas' car, which finished in fourth place, accumulated the most laps of any car but was severely hurt by penalties. With quick Kenny Broussard, Joe Thompson, Tom Gross and Dave Dziachan leading the way, Halas ran up 97 total laps but were penalized for seven.

Noll's WSJC-sponsored tricycle was the fastest car in the race, but dropped to fifth place because of penalties and some mechanical difficulties. Driver Jim Neal guided his able pushers well and handled his car skillfully.

Co-eds were entered in the race, for the first time in history, as drivers for another Noll entry. Mary Pat Smith and Mary Ellen Kendall were

Top Students Are Honored At Parents Day Gathering

One of the major events of Sunday's Parents Day schedule was the Parents Day Award Program. Many of the visitors on campus congregated in the Halleck Center dining room to see the awarding of students for their excellence in academic and competitive scholarship. The program which was slightly delayed because of the Chad Mitchell Concert was opened by Father Spanbauer, C.PP.S., and began with a presentation by the College Glee Club.

Father Donald Ballmann, C.PP.S., announced the awards which were presented by Father Charles H. Banet, C.PP.S., the president of the college. Recognition was given to the outstanding students who were named to Who's Who Among American Colleges. The new members of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the junior-senior honor fraternity, received pins along with the recognition of the audience. Certificates were presented to members of Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman honor fraternity on campus.

David D'Avignon won the $100 Mary J. Pursley Creative Writing Award. D'Avignon is a sophomore political science major from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Senior Fred Meyer won the Louis F. White Award presented by the Glee Club of Saint Joseph's College. Meyer is a Math major from Lorain, Ohio.

The Eileen W. Macfarlane DKL Award was presented to L. Timothy Mellin, a junior biology major from Maywood, Illinois.

The winner of the Lay Trustees Business Award of $100 and a wood-bronze plaque was Phillip Calcott. Calcott is a senior marketing major from Elmwood, Ill.

The winner of The Wall Street Journal Award, who was chosen by the faculty of the Department of Business Administration, was senior Don Deters from Carlyle, Illinois.

The wood-bronze plaque of the Indiana Association of Certified Public Accountants Award was presented to senior accounting major Carl Bossung.

The John P. Hruzik Geology Award was presented to David Rubner. The senior geology major received a Brunton Compass.

Winner of the Hanley Science Award was junior biology major Chris Andres from Titusville, Pa. First prize in the contest which is open to juniors and seniors majoring in one of the natural sciences is $75. The $50 second place prize went to James McCormick, senior biology major from Lima, Ohio. Jerome Ciesla, a senior biology-chemistry major from Raleigh, N.C., won the third place prize of $25.

Saint Joseph's College Mother of the Year was announced and her son, the new president of the Student Council presented her with roses. Mrs. Gertrude Lunkes proudly received the title.

At the conclusion of the student awards, Father Paul White, C.PP.S., presented Father Banet with a check for $4500 and Student Council President, Dale Fallat

President Announces Bequest Of $40,000 To College

Saint Joseph's College has been designated the recipient of a $40,000 gift from the estate of a late Lake County man, the President's Office has announced.

The bequest is from the estate of Frank Nolan, who died March 6, 1965, following a lifetime as a farmer on land near Lowell, Ind. Executrix of the estate is Agnes M. Eich of Lowell.

According to Father Charles Banet, C.PP.S., President of Saint Joseph's, the bequest will go into an account to be used for the planned remodeling and redecoration of the college chapel.

Frank Nolan, the son of John and Otilla Nolan, was born in Lowell on Jan. 21, 1899. He was baptized at St. Edward's there and was a life-long member of the parish. His parents were among the first families that assisted in the founding of St. Edward's.

Preceding him in death were his parents, five sisters and three brothers. One of the sisters was Sister M. DeFrosa of the order of St. Francis. He left no survivors.

Nolan was a farmer his entire lifetime on land which the family owned for many years near Lowell. Although Nolan had only a limited elementary education, he held a deep interest in Catholic education.

"Saint Joseph's College is indeed happy and proud that Mr. Nolan has very generously demonstrated this sincere interest through his most kind bequest," says Father Banet. "It is through the devoted interest of men such as Mr. Nolan that Catholic education can continue to play its vital role in the American educational system.

Frosh-Soph Weekend Planned for May 6

The annual underclassman's spring dance sponsored by the freshman class has been scheduled for the weekend of May 6 and 7. Friday night at 7:00 p.m. festivities will begin with a hayride followed by an informal dance in the basement of Halleck Center which will be in progress during the hayride.

Weather permitting, underclassmen and their dates will all be invited to a picnic for Saturday afternoon activity. Saturday night the semi-formal dance will begin at 9:00

Prof. Expert Contracted To Direct Installation Of New IBM Computer

Mr. Kenneth Zawodny, a visiting professor on leave of absence from Penta Technical College, will begin work here on May 1 under the official title of Director of the Computer Facility. Zawodny's contract calls for him to spend sixteen months here performing a wide variety of tasks. Basically he will oversee the installation of an IBM 11-30 computer presently on order and slated to be in operation by October 1, 1966.

Zawodny has a background of 11 years in computer programming and system design. He headed the group which computerized the city of Toledo and spent several years in perfecting that system. He has experience in marketing research programming through work he has done for a department store chain, and he designed the system for Owens Illinois Glass Company.

He will begin work next week overseeing the construction of the planned computer area located in the present carpenter shop across from the laundry. The complex will include housing for the computer, temperature and humidity controls, a section for the recording and memory bank, classrooms and working area. He will also suggest areas of utilization across the needs of the college and assist those responsible in such areas in adapting systems where necessary and feasible.

Fiscal operations are the first on his list to be adapted to computerization. Registration, class changes, grade reports and many other areas are to be investigated.

Zawodny is also a professor and will advise the academic dean as to the implementation of a curriculum in computer studies. He will teach the courses in cybernetics himself. At the end of his leave of absence Zawodny plans to return to Penta Technical College and resume his duties there.

Fr. Robbins Wins Senior Class Raffle

Monday afternoon Fr. McCarthy was chosen to draw the winner of the first Senior Class Raffle. Oddly enough, the winner of first prize was Fr. Robbins, registrar of Saint Joseph's College. Father had the choice of accepting a free room in a dormitory next year or the money value of the prize which was $110. He chose the latter.

The raffle was established by the senior class officers and grossed over $200. From this, the prize money was deducted, and the remainder will be distributed to students in request of financial aid.

Senior class president John O'Donnell hopes that the raffle will be carried on into the future and visualizes it as an excellent way to promote funds for students who need financial aid to continue their education.

Sunday afternoon in Alumni Fieldhouse the entertaining sounds of the Mitchell Trio were heard by an audience composed of students, parents and friends.

"Comps"

Every year about this time many of us notice the distaught and worried faces worn by the older looking members of our student body. These are our seniors who have awakened to the fact that their graduation is merely pending. On May 10 and 11 seniors will have to pass comprehensive examinations in their major field of study to obtain a diploma they have worked and saved for.

Last week most seniors realized the plight and petitioned the abolishment of these tests and rightly so. Finally, after four years the majority of these young men are eligible for a degree which their future is resting upon. Initiative and drive have carried individuals to this plateau of our present education system. Now the value of all positive efforts are going to be jeopardized by a two-day testing blitz.

The purpose of these can be realized but not the weight given them. After four years instruction in history, for example, a student should be able to draw together different trends and eras and distinguish certain historical facts from others. Such an argument holds particularly valid for those seeking a career as an educator. But why after fulfilling the requirements for the courses in a specific field of study should receiving a degree rest on the outcome of just two days of testing?

The same purpose would be served if the passing of the examinations was not necessary for graduation. It's beneficial for the individual to know how he can intergrate his knowledge in relation to others in the same field, but this seems to be the only advantage. If seniors are eligible for graduation discounting the outcome of comprehensive examinations, they have fulfilled the necessary requirements thereby verifying their competence in specific courses. Now they are asked to bring to mind in a matter of weeks these four-year probings into a subject and do so sucessfully. The power of recall is not that potent and cannot be expected to be. Even professors themselves have to refer to some source to get facts straight that were once included in their comprehensive examinations.

Many administrations, seeing the awakening of students to this situation, have heard the cry for academic justice and have abolished comprehensive examinations. Now is the time for Saint Joseph's to examine purposes and weigh changing standards to determine whether student discontent has merit. If this is done these tests will soon be an institution of the past. DTM

Contract Crises

Last weekend was lauded as one of the biggest social affairs in the activity calendar of Saint Joseph's. Somehow the description was hardly fitting for such a colassal failure. This marks the second consecutive year that the once-famous "Little 500" weekend, the traditional opening of spring on campus, has ended in disgrace.

There were several factors that contributer to the fiasco. No one would deny that Saturday's weather was no incentive to festivity, but a more perfect day for fertility rites than Sunday could hardly have been planned despite the fact that the tulips didn't bloom. Despite some discontent over the outcome, the running of the "Little 500' race itself was one of the most exciting and hostly contested in its history. The real problem was the ostensible scarcity of girls on hand to join in the fun. Everyone knows that hordes of bright cheerful young ladies are needed to honor the first throbbings of the new life of spring. But very few dainty young things were making merry at the pathetic a go-go mimic of East Seifert's sister hall.

It seems that blame can hardly be placed elsewhere than in a booking agent hidden from persecution somewhere in a Chicago office. Originally scheduled to perform on Sunday was the popular "We Five," a group no doubt chosen because of their evident ability to draw girls away from their hideaway. But several days before the confirmations from women colleges, the We Five cancelled their engagement on the basis of a technicality in the contract which allows the booking agent to change the talent even at the last minute if a comparable group is rescheduled. At this point the agent promised Chad Mitchell in person along with his newly formed supporting trio. But wait. On Thursday another change was made and Chad Mitchell's trio, reformed without Chad, was finally booked for the engagement. Certainly to avoid such idiotic messes in the future, a contract could be drawn up so that cancellations at the last minute would be illegal.

A "'Little 500" Thank You Note

1. Thank you for the excellent organization of the race this year.

2. Thank you for the ropes necessary to keep unauthorized personnel out of the pit area.

3. Thank you for providing such interesting experienced race personnel so necessary in promoting a competitive spirit.

4. Thank you for the lap recorders who recorded at least a majority of the laps which were run.

5. Thank you for the unbiased judges from halls who had cars entered in the race.

6. Thank you for the lap tabulation machine that compiled the utterly fascinating information on race results.

7. Thank you for the hair-trigger penalty men who issued penalties to the right cars.

8. Thank you for the unprecedented "gossip column" by which penalty information was relayed to the judges' table and penalties were thereby issued to some car or another.

9. Thank you for informing the drivers, pit crew and runners of who won when the race was over.

10. Thank you, yes indeed. Thank you for doing so much to develop such an outstanding spirit of fair play and wholesome competition in our young Catholic gentlemen and raising the standards of the race so high that the idea of it becoming a farce is entirely absurd.

Tom Myslinski—Noll 211

Dear Sir:

Several weeks ago I received in the mail the Saturday Evening Post. I have received it several times since then and now, after some reflection, will admit that it is a fine magazine to subscribe to. However, the fact remains that I did not subscribe to it, at least, not that I know of. And, if I did not subscribe to it, someone else must have done it for me. And I bear him no grudge for subscribing me to the mailing list of the Saturday Evening Post. Indeed, if I had his name, which I do not, I would, likely as not, dash right over to his room and say, "Thank you, friend, for subscribing me to the Saturday Evening Post." When someone does something for me, I like to let him or her know I'm thankful.

There is another matter, however, I am receiving leftist literature from a group known as Individualists Inc. After a good deal of reflection concerning this matter, I have concluded that, had it been left to me, I would not have subscribed to this particular periodical. There are no pictures in it, and I hold that most worthwhile periodicals have some pictures. Besides, I'm not a born leader and I think I may be the only name on their mailing list.

The real heart of my problem, though, is the fact that I'm also receiving Sports Illustrated, Life, Look, Time, and Readers Digest. Now mind you, I'm not the panicky type. I learned to swim when I was five. If my funny friend reads this, I hope he is not insulted. Indeed, I hope he takes what I say for face value. What worries me is, the bills are starting to roll in now, and I was kind of hoping for a Playboy. See what I mean?

Yours oddly enough,

Phil Deaver

Dear Editor,

How is it that there can be such lack of organization in preparation for a big mixer such as the "Little 500" last Saturday that there should be confusion as to whether girls should be invited independently for the weekend because the Student Council wasn't going to? Or did they? What did happen?

Name witheld by request

THE VOICE OF ROYCE

In this, my first contribution to Stuff, I would like to describe my experience at last week's "Little 500" mixer. (One thing to keep in mind while reading this—there was not one, but TWO dance combos).

I saw the girl of my dreams, by the west bandstand, I walked up and this was the conversation . . .

"Hi! What's your name?"

"What?"

"I said 'Hi!' What's your name?

"Oh! I go to Mundelein."

"What is you major?"

"It's in Chicago, near the Lake."

"Where is your hometown?"

"Elementary education."

"Do you like the mixer?"

(She chuckled . . "Ha, Ha, Ha") "No—but I have two brothers."

"Have you ever been to Saint Joe's before?"

"Yes, one of them played football."

"Oh!"

"What?"

Being quite confused by this time, I asked her to dance.

"Do you want to dance?"

"What?"

"I said, 'do you want to dance?' That's what these TWO fine bands are for."

"Oh, no! I just couldn't. I am waiting for someone.

Just then, a senior walked up and put his hand out, her eyes glowed brightly and off she went to the middle of the floor—Utopia. Feeling very silly and outdone, I walked up to the first girl I saw.

"Would you like to dance?"

"What?"

"That's OK, I was just on my way to the bathroom, anyway."

PUMA PRINTS

By JAMES O. SAUL

Bowling, a not-too-emphasized sport here at Saint Joseph's, was a very successful endeavor this year. The Pumas lost the MIBC league title by one point to Notre Dame and were just two-tenths of a point behind ND's team average, 908.6—908.4.

The three senior members of the team—Jim Callero, Larry Lechner, and George Zulanas—were instrumental in the squad's success and some type of recognition is in order.

Jim Callero, a jolly, 22-year-old lefthander, was the team captain and finished with a 180 average. He quickly added, however, "That was my lowest in three years. Sophomore year it was 184 and junior year it was 190."

The six-foot, 220-pound sports addict has been bowling for eight years, and he cites a league-sanctioned 227-223-289—781 series as his greatest thrill. "Souga," as he is commonly called, played in a professional league in high school and this is when his big series took place.

When asked what he thought was the biggest thing bowling has done for him, Callero quipped, "It's made me lots of money. Seriously, besides that, it's the fun and enjoyment I get from the game, plus the meeting of new friends, which makes bowling a great game."

He was quick to laud the head coach, Father Boniface Dreiling, as "a good coach who really knows what he is talking about. He was a top bowler in his day, and can spot the different problems we might have. Maybe he hasn't helped me as much as the others because I'm a leftie, but he's a good man."

Now that the subject of lefthandedness was brought up, "Souga" began talking about the advantages and disadvantages of a southpaw bowler.

"A bowling alley gets tracks worn in it, and a righthander is somewhat restricted because there are more righthanded bowlers and deeper tracks. I am a lot more free as to where I want to throw it because there are no tracks. This is a big advantage when it comes to spares, and spares are the most important part of the game. Also, lefties usually throw a stronger ball, have a natural turn, and are sometimes wilder because of this. Nevertheless, righthanders are the more natural bowlers. For instance, Larry Lechner is the most natural bowler I've ever seen—and I've seen a lot of professionals and I've bowled with a lot of them.

The 22-year-old Lechner, of whom Callero was speaking, has the average to back up his naturalness, also. A graduate of New Trier High School in Winnetka, Ill., Lechner finished the season with a 193 average.

One highlight of his ten-year bowling career is finishing first in a National High School tournament four years ago. He topped the nation's best keglers with a 245-264-245—745 series.

"It had to be the biggest bowling thrill of my life," Lechner declared.

Lechner's main drawback seems to be his temper. He easily flares up at himself, and this is a definite hindrance in any sport. After bowling a ball, his five-foot, eleven-inch frame sometimes carries his 180 pounds over onto the next alley in an attempt to "body English" the ball into the strike zone.

Lechner's high game in sanctioned play was 289, but he scored a 300 game at Holbrook's Maple Lanes this year. Watching him bowl, you can feel the intense desire, which made that perfect game even more satisfying for him.

For the other senior, 21-year-old George Zulanas, it was his first year with the Puma keglers and he finished with a 170 average. Zulanas has been on the alleys now for ten years, but this year was his best so far.

"Probably the biggest influence on my game, more than Father Dreiling, was "Souga." He has instructed me on all aspects of the game from the approach to the follow-through."

Zulanas' most satisfying experience was when the Pumas defeated Notre Dame 9-2, earlier this year.

"They were the top team and we romped them," he stated. "The student support at Holbrook's during our first two matches really gave us a lift."

Mike Hanna, Indiana State's 15-9 pole vaulter continues to show improvement after a winter injury, by vaulting 15' 6 and a half inches at Ball State last Friday. On his last try at 16-1, he cleared the bar with inches to spare, but tipped the crossbar with his hand.

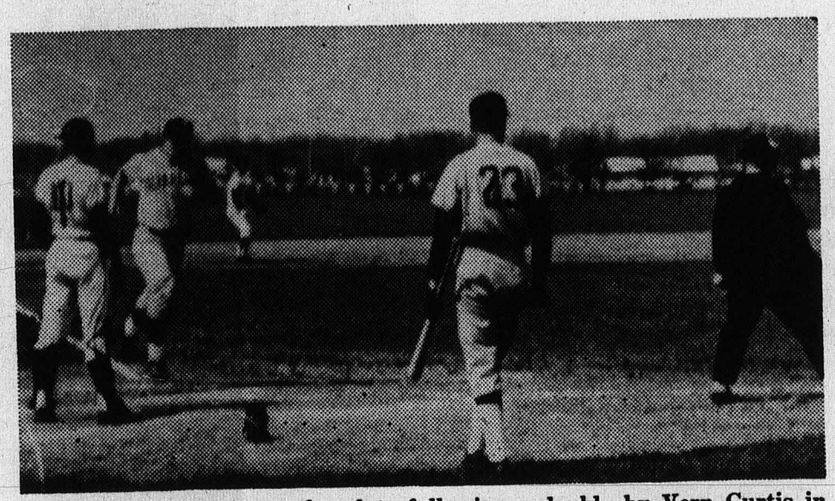
Pumas Split With Valpo; Tie For 2nd In ICC



A Valpo runner crosses the plate following a double by Vern Curtis in the first game of Monday's doubleheader. The Pumas came back to win the opener 5-4 in 12 innings.

Potts Pitches Twelve Innings In 5-4 Victory

Saint Joseph's senior catcher Tom Crowley and his battery-mate sophomore Denny Potts provided the impetus for a first game victory over Valparaiso in twelve innings here Monday. The Crusaders rebounded to win the nightcap going away at 5-1.

All the scoring in the opener came in the sixth, eighth and twelfth innings—the first overtime game of the 1966 season. Potts labored the route for the Saints and encountered trouble in almost every inning. The visitors touched him for 12 hits and six walks—their big inning coming in the top of the sixth after five lifeless stanzas. Vern Curtis, the Crusaders' leading hitter of the day, knocked in two of the three runs with a double over centerfielder Wayne Butrick's outstretched glove.

BULLETIN

The Pumas bombed Wabash 9-5, Tuesday at Wabash. Mark Woolwine starred at the plate with a single, double and a home run in five trips.

Denny Edmonds upped his season mark to 3-2.

The Pumas countered with a pair of runs in their half of the sixth. Butrick singled past first base, Crowley walked and leftfielder, Mark Woolwine singled for one run. Third baseman Frank Frasor followed with a line-single to center to score Crowley.

Crowley Goes 3 For 3

Valpo picked up another run in the top of the eighth to pad the lead to 4-2, but Saint Joseph's pinched losing pitcher Rick Jones for two more in the bottom of the same period. Crowley, whom the Crusaders retired but once in the first game (three hits and a pair of free passes) singled to center. First baseman, Randy Traugh, rolled a hit between short and third and Woolwine's clean sacrifice advanced the runners to second and third. Frasor again followed with a crisp double to right-center to tie the contest.

Traugh's bid to end the game in the bottom of the ninth was caught at the 330 sign in left field. It was only one of a dozen fine plays on both sides which accounted for the extra duty.

Valpo's Bob Griffin led off the ninth with a triple and died at

Varsity, Alumni To Clash

The young blood of the 1966 varsity will see just how much fight is left in the old Puma when the ninth annual "Old Timers" football game on Saturday, May 14, pits last year's surprise team against the Saint Joe Alumni.

Invitations have been sent to 110 alumni who have played for the Saints over the past ten years, and most of them should be more than ready to put the varsity's ruggedness in spring practice to the test.

The varsity ranks will be filled with the familiar faces of Duffy Hagist, Ron Budde, Mitch Dmytrow, Phil Datka, Joe Mercado, Jim Taggart, Mike Sheahan, George Badke, Bob Cummings, Jim Dundas, Joe Zimmer, Wayne Tilton and many more colorful Puma characters.

Added to that formidable list are the graduates of last year's undefeated Puma frosh team including J. D. Graham, Tim Carmody, Jim Sullivan, Denny Veno, Kevin Duffy and Milt Payton.

Perhaps an indication of what head coach Jim Arneberg has in store for the alumni is the fact that 24-hour accident insurance will be provided for those who play.

The game, sponsored by the Monogram Club, is at 1:00 p. m. Central Daylight Time.

Puma Golfers Seek Ist Win

Saint Joseph's golf team, winless so far this season, will play on their home turf for the first time this spring in a quadrangular meet with Valparaiso, Ball State and Indiana State at Curtis Creek on Saturday.

The squad, coached by Jim Holstein, will be out to better their 0-3 record. April 16, Saint Joseph's lost a four-way meet with Indiana State, Ball State and DePauw, and one week later were defeated by Wabash.

The Midlands Conference Tournament found the Pumas pitted against DePauw, Valparaiso, Wabash and Wheaton, defeating only Wheaton. Then, on April 25, Butler and Wabash spelled defeat again for the Saint Joe clubmen.

Jack Sollo, a junior, has been playing in the number one spot, seniors Tex Blake and Kevin Woods are playing out of the number three position, sophomore Mack Hershberger is fourth and juniors Tom Dunham and John Filan are alternating as fifth men.

SJC Racketeers Have 0-6 Record

The Saint Joseph's 1966 varsity tennis team is 0-6 so far this season, with a match scheduled for today at DePauw University in Greencastle, where they went after their first victory.

Coach Charles "Dick" Dickinson's young Puma netters have been defeated by: Ball State, 7-0; Valparaiso, 4 - 3 (Mike Laginess and Joe Hake won their singles matches and Laginess and Jim Brown won a doubles match); Evansville, 6 - 1 (Hake was the only winner); Ind. State, 7-0; Butler, 4-3 (Laginess, Brown and Hake all won their singles matches); Wabash, 6-1 (Brown was the Pumas' sole victor in the match).

C. Dickinson

Coach Dickinson's court men carried Valpo and Butler right down to the wire before losing the last doubles match each time.

Saint Joe's will travel to Butler Saturday for an Indiana Collegiate Conference match at Indianapolis. Sunday they will visit Marian College.

Puma Cindermen Set New SJC Mark

Saint Joseph's mile relay team established a new school record in the Great Lakes Association Meet at Crawfordsville last Saturday, as the Pumas placed 13 medalists in the competition.

Sophomores Jim Nies, Mike Bowman and Jim Walsh, and junior Mike Langley combined to turn the mile in 3:39, two seconds ahead of the previous school record established in 1960.

Other medalists included Jim Still, high jump (4th); John Negovetich, pole vault (4th); Scott Dasse, shot put and javelin (4th and 3rd); Ron Budde, javelin (4th) and the 440-relay team of Randy Ferrari, Lenny Proctor, Tom Krasne and Nies (3rd).

Last Tuesday, they travelled to Indianapolis for a quadrangular meet with Indiana Central, Vincennes and Franklin.

Scott Dasse was the only first place winner for the Pumas and that was in the javelin. He gained third position in the shot put and the discus throw.

Steve Hayden, with only two days of practice, placed second in the broad jump with a leap of 19-11. Tony Dockus leaped to a third place.

Other medalists were Jim Still and Jim Walsh with thirds in the high jump and 440-yard dash, respectively.

"We are getting more depth than in the past," head coach Jim Arneberg stated. "What is needed now is conditioning. They are a great crew of hard workers sacrificing their time. It's a pleasure coaching them."

Merlini and Gaspar Vie For Intramural Honors

By NEIL PORATH

In the finals of the volleyball tournament the Xavier Mongies, led by Potts, Schmelzer, and Kuhlman defeated the Gaspar Spikers. With fine team spirit and aggressive play the Mongies turned in an undefeated season.

During the past two weeks the I.M. department has been busy making out schedules for badminton, softball, tennis and golf. These spring programs should provide everyone with fine competition, sunshine and lots of fun.

The badminton tournament, for a change, has a large field of contestants and has been made a single elimination tournament——allowing no one to have a bad day.

In the 12" softball league the Independent Vindicators seem to be a powerhouse behind the pitching of Jim Pfingstler. The Vindicators are now 3-0. In 16" softball the most impressive teams are the Washburn Animals, Halas Jasbos, East Seifert Studs, and Merlini Lonely Hearts but the season is young and upsets are not uncommon at St. Joe.

By looking at the I.M. Standings it is obvious to note that the freshmen are leading the school—congratulations freshmen. Note also that we are coming to a close of the I.M. season and Merlini is only 3 points ahead of Gaspar.

p.m. with music furnished by the Amboy Dukes from Chicago.

Freshman class president, Rich Corea, revealed that if enough interest is shown, a bus will be run from Chicago Friday afternoon to campus for anyone needing transportation for their dates. Those interested should contact their hall representatives or any of the freshman class officers for further arrangements.

Tickets for the weekend are priced at $3.50 and may be obtained in the chapel cafeteria.

Social drinking has been granted by Fr. Shields for both Friday and Saturday's dances for all dance-goers.

Softball Title Goes To Finance Majors

The finance majors' 16-inch softball team has emerged as champions in a round-robin tournament played last week in front of Bennet Hall, by clipping the management majors 14-7 in the title game.

Earlier, the management squad outlasted the accounting boys, 16-12, in extra innings. Mr. Richard Flynn, who was the only professor participating in the day's festivities, was the losing hurler.

Then the finance nine nipped the marketing majors in a slugfest, 25-23, to advance to the final game.

The winners' "trophies" (and the losers', too) were presented immediately afterwards in Lloyd's with a foam head on them.

Miss Linda Hughes, who was the cute little baton twiler during half time of many of the Saint Joseph's home basketball games, holds the trophy she won for first place in the Indiana State Twirling Association contest, Junior Division.

Bowlers Finish Third In MIBC Tournament

Saint Joseph's bowling team closed out its successful 1965-66 season by placing third in the Midwestern Intercollegiate Bowling Conference last Sunday at DePaul.

The hosts swept the tournament in fine style with Notre Dame in second place and the Pumas finishing 16 pins away from the Irish. Loras College, Illinois Institute of Technology and Loyola followed in the final standings.

Sophomore Jim Berlier bowled the high series for Saint Joe with a 550 total for the three-game set. Senior captain Jim Callero rolled the high game at 224.

Another senior and the team's top bowler, Larry Lechner, had a bad day and bowled the lowest of the five Puma keglers entered.

"No one bowled outstanding," Callero stated. "Larry is our number one man and he just couldn't catch a break. Anytime your best man is not bowling well, you can't do much. Even when any of us bowled a good game, we followed with a bad one and that certainly lowered the average."

Graduating seniors — Callero, Lechner and George Zulanas—will be missed, but Berlier and two juniors will bolster the attack next year.

Callero continued, "With Pete Tosto, Jim Pfingstler and Berlier coming back, the team should have a good chance for a league title. Most of the conference teams are losing quite a bit more than we are."

third as Frasor and Woolwine contributed fine catches to end the threat. Valpo again threatened in the top of the twelfth. With runners at second and third and one out, the Crusaders call for a suicide squeeze. Crowley applied the brakes by taking the outside pitch and planting the tag on the surprised runner.

He then led off the twelfth with another single. Traugh popped out to third, but Woolwine advanced Crowley to third with his third single. Jim Olsen replaced Jones at this stage and fired two quick strikes past Frasor. His third pitch was also a strike but got past catcher Joe Wetzel for a passed ball as the jubilant Crowley scampered home with the winning run.

O'Loughlin Loses Second Game

Coach Dick Pawlow employed his ace southpaw, Jim O'Loughlin, in the night cap. O'Loughlin was wilder than in previous outings and his opponent John Miklos fired a three-hitter for a 5-1 Valpo victory.

The Saints managed a 1-0 lead in the second due to a sloppy Crusader defense, but a free pass spelled doom in the fourth. Russ Steinbeck drew a walk and stole second base just prior to Don Pech's single to center. With the score tied, leftfielder Paul Stutz lined a drive over the left field fence for the day's only home run and the ball game. Miklos surrendered hits to Crowley in the first, Frasor in the second and Traugh in the sixth as he upped his season record to 2-1. The hard-hitting rivals stand 4-4 on the current season but Jones' record fell to 2-3 in the first game.

Saint Joseph's on the other hand, pushed its mark to 9-5 (4-2 in the ICC). O'Loughlin dropped his first decision of the season (4-1) while Potts moved up to 2-1.
